ABOUT THE WORKSHOP

“Theatre for the Art of Living brings theatre closer to life through creativity, expression, and meaningful interaction.”

This one-day workshop provides participants with a hands-on experience of theatre as a tool for communication, confidence-building, creativity, and personal development.

Through engaging activities, performance exercises, improvisation, and role play, participants will learn to express themselves freely and connect with others more effectively.

The workshop invites every participant to move beyond the boundaries of the classroom and discover the joy of learning, performing, sharing, and growing together. Because theatre is not only about playing a role— it is about understanding life.
